Editor CORNELL:

Jas. G. Wright would be some satisfaction to those who have friends and relatives in this Company, which participated in the day's fight at Murfreesboro, Tenn., of which the Second Division suffered severely. I afterwards asked if there was sent into the fight also, the killed, wounded and missing, and taken prisoners out of Co. A, 6th Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry.

gross violation of such rules, as are observed in deliberative assemblies.

He was very properly called to order by the presiding officer, whereupon he insolently refused to take his seat, and attempted to go on with his speech. The Vice President then ordered the Sergeant-at-Arms to take the gentlemen in custody. Whilst that officer was conducting him from the Senate Chamber, Saulsbury displayed a revolver which he took from his coat pocket. After a short time had elapsed, he again went back, and attempted to renew his speech.— He was a second time called to order and threatened with arrest, whereupon he took his seat venting his bile by swearing at the Sergeant-at-Arms, and Senator Sumner.

It is with the greatest mortification that we chronicle the occurrence of such a disgraceful scene in the United States Senate. We hoped that when the Southern members left its halls, that the Senate would be freed from such disturbances. As Saulsbury hails from a slave State, however, it is not so much a matter of surprise that he should manifest the old insolent, ruffianly spirit of Southern aristocracy. It is a manifestation of that domineering spirit which was so often exhibited by Southern members of Congress. Saulsbury seems to have forgotten that he was addressing a Senate that would not brook such insolence; or rather as we suspect, he must have been drunk. Such is the natural conclusion from his conduct. Be that as it may, he has outraged the Senate, and the nation, and should be made to suffer. The Senate owes it to itself and to the nation to expel this foul-mouthed and insolent member; who occupying a high place of public trust, has no more respect for the body to which he belongs, than to act the part of a rowdy in the Senate Chamber; and who has no more respect for the people than to insult their Chief Executive.

What are we coming to, that our Senate is disgraced by the presence of such men as this Saulsbury? Is the nation to be covered with ridicule, and contempt, by its toleration of such proceedings? We shall justly in-doubt that we have made great progress, unexampled progress, thus far in the war. It only requires patient and persevering effort upon our part to assure the speedy and entire overthrow of the rebellion.

CAMP SHELLEY, 2d Division,
MEMPHIS, TENN.,
SUNDAY, Jan. 15, 1865.

It is a great satisfaction to those who have friends and relatives in this Company, which participated in the 9 days fight at Marietta, Tenn., of which the Second Division suffered severely, to have below a list of those who went into the fight, also, the killed, wounded and missing, and taken prisoners out of Co. A, 6th Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry: William H. Biker, Orderly Sergeant; Fletcher Steele; Lambert Schell; Geo. A. Bendafield, 1st Corporal—killed; Samuel Storm, 2d Corporal, wounded and taken prisoner; Cary B. Hixson, D. M. Woodland, Alexander Joyce, McKindred Bonbraken, William H. McCoy, William McCally, John W. Anderson, private, wounded; John M. Anderson, James J. Barber, Lewis M. Copps, Michael Connolly, Jefferson Cooperider, wounded slightly; Dow Conway, private; Philip Donohue, William T. Ellis, private; James Elyson, missing; Elijah Hawkins, Jerome Hilla, Andrew D. JAMES C. WHALEY,

Commanding Co. A, 6th Reg't, Ind. Vol.

Before the election Democratic candidates for the Indiana Legislature made a great ado about what they called the great extravagan-

Very consoling and very easy to say that it was impossible to prevent all this, and that the occupation of the outer edge of the Republic amounts to nothing. Drury's bluff and Vicksburg give the lie to the first assertion, and the onward movement of Rosecrans towards Alabama, the presence of Grant, to North Mississippi, and of Curtis in Middle Arkansas, to say nothing of Banks at New Orleans and Baton Rouge, set at rest the silly dream that a thin strip of red-coat only is in the possession of our foes. The truth is, the Yankees are in great force in the very heart of the Confederacy; they swarm on all our borders, they threaten every important city yet belonging to us, and nearly two hundred thousand of them are within two days' march of the Confederate capital. This is no fiction. It is a fact so positive that none can deny it.

Not is this all. The President tells us, in his message, that the troubles with the Indian tribes have been removed, and no further difficulty is anticipated. The intelligence we obtain from private and trustworthy sources does not confirm the President's sanguine assertions. The trouble with the Cherokees was, in great part, due to the fact that some seven or eight thousand of them, now in arms, had not received a cent of pay for fourteen months. It is true that paper money has been sent them, and ere now, it is to be hoped, has reached its destination. But Indians do not like paper money. Still it would answer the purpose if General Albert Pike remained to disburse it, and to allow their pretenses which he, of all men in the Confederacy, is best able to do. Pike, however, has resigned, for good reasons, doubtless, and a person said to be not the most competent in left in his stead. Under these circumstances, we shall be fortunate indeed if we escape further trouble with the Indians. Moreover, we get from Missouri members and others, distressing accounts of the condition of affairs in Arkansas.

General Hindman is very far from being a favorite, even among his own people, and so destitute are some of the new levies that have volunteered to come out of Missouri to join our armies, that whole battalions of them have been seen marching barefoot through snow three inches deep. Add to this the fact that, so far as the public is permitted to know, New Mexico and Arizona are, for the time being, lost to us and that the state of disaffection in Tennessee and Mississippi (growing out of the appointment of Jacobson, west officers, and the fancied neglect of that country by the Confederate Government)—not from any lack of valor in the cause), which President Davis visit was intended to heal, is likely to revive under the depressing influence of Bragg's retreat and his coaquance in command—add all this to the foraging, and
